Reasons for Allowance

1. Claims 3, 5, 7 and 58-66 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The cited prior art taken alone or in combination fails to teach the claims invention of an electronic employee selection system wherein electronic data questionnaire is presented to an individual, answers are electronically stored, prediction is established conditioned on at least one job performance criterion related to at least one post hire result modeled from the correlations of questions and answers related to post hire information of other individuals that will establish a metric of suitability of an individual for employment wherein at least one of the following applies: questions are subjected to a defined performance-driven item rotation; post hire outcome is a predicted probability for a particular value range for at least one job performance criterion; predicted values related to at least one post-hire criterion for at least one job performance criterion is a function of a continuous variable; or prediction is achieved by a model validated by successive validation cycles related to the input answers to the model identifying post-hire results related to at least one job performance criterion.

The closest prior art (Bro, U. S. Patent 5,722,418) teaches a method for mediating social and behavioral process in medicine and business through an interactive telecommunications guidance system wherein questions are sent to an employee related to changing or reinforcing goal management. Bro does not teach questions are subjected to a defined performance-driven item rotation; post hire outcome is a predicted probability for a particular value range for at least one job performance criterion; predicted values related to at least one post-hire criterion for at least one job performance criterion is a function of a continuous variable; and prediction is achieved by a model validated by successive validation cycles related to the input answers to the model identifying post-hire results related to at least one job performance criterion.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
